Elks Are Back From
WailukuFINE TIME HAD BY LOCAL ELKS
WHO JOURNEYED TO WAILUKU
—BACK THIS MORNING.

"Gee, but that was a dandy town
Nothing but smiles when you looked around—"

The Elks are all singing it. They can't help it. When Bill Elk meets Bill Elk today there is a falling of many tears and loud wails are heard throughout the land. For Honolulu Bill Elk met the Wailuku Bill Elk and the "best people on earth" did some celebrating which will remain long in their memories as a most glorious victory. And the thought that it is all over causes the aforesaid tears and wails.

It was a good time. No one can gainsay it. From the time the Claudine pulled out from Honolulu on last Friday evening at six o'clock until the Kinau game in this morning the bunch played the game and they played it right. Wailuku was out in force to welcome them, 22 in the herd, and the choicest pasture lands were turned over to the local herd for them to graze over. And they browsed on the edibles and drank their fill from the limpid, sparkling waters which flow down from the lantana-clad slopes of the Wailuku mountains.

The local herd, 60 in the bunch, left here at six o'clock last Friday evening. At six the next morning they were at Kahului where they were met by the brothers on Maui. A highly decorated barge was brought out and the bunch taken ashore. There a special train was awaiting them and they were taken with all of the ceremonies dear to the Elk heart to Wailuku. Here they found quarters in the Maui Hotel and in private houses where breakfast was served. Everything was thrown open to them and they found only smiles and greetings during their stay on the island.

During the morning they were taken through the Wailuku mill and then on the train to Punahoa where they inspected the mill at that place. In the evening a social session was held at which they all proceeded to have a glorious time.

Ten o'clock Sunday morning they were taken to a picnic in the Iao valley where the day was spent. Then to Kahului the bunch was herded and after roll call they boarded the Kinau, which had made a special trip for them and at 8 o'clock the steamer sailed for home, arriving in the city at 6 this morning.

Just ask an Elk what kind of a time he had and see him smile.

SUPERVISORS TO
HOLD FORTH TONIGHTBOARD WILL MEET THIS EVENING
TO CONSIDER ROAD DEPARTMENT BILLS AND PAYROLL

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Oahu will meet this evening and the chief matter to come before them will be the passing of the bills of the road and garbage department as well as the payroll of that department.

It is highly probable that Supervisor Archer will bring up the matter of straightening the road at Kalauna, near Ewa, which is at present in two sharp curves. The proposed new road will be about 700 feet in length.

The Board will decide tonight when it will meet to pass estimates for the police and other departments for next month. They will probably decide upon February 26.

CRAWFORD
IS ON TRIALGAMBLING CASE RESUMED TODAY—VARIOUS MATTERS WERE IN THE COURTS THIS MORNING

The trial of W. H. Crawford on a charge of conducting a gambling game was resumed before Judge Robinson and a jury this morning. Judge Gear, attorney for the defendant, moved for a directed verdict of acquittal, contending that a Supreme Court decision had the same effect of a statute, and that the defendant was entitled to a discharge, although the Supreme Court had, when the case was carried before it for decision on a legal point, overruled itself. The court overruled the motion. Lum Tong was the first witness called for the prosecution.
